The Principal's Report

Namaskar! A very good morning to you all!

Respected Chief Guest – Dr. Satyanarayan Jatiya, Guest of Honour Prof. Devesh K. Sinha, Distinguished Guest- Pt. Pulkit Mishra, Chairman Governing Body - Prof. B. P. Sahu, University Representative on Governing Body- Prof. Rama Kant, dignitaries, faculty, administrative officials, non teaching staff, parents and my very dear students. My warm greetings to all of you. On behalf of entire Kalindi College, I wish you all a convivial welcome to the 50th Annual Day Celebrations and closing ceremony of the Golden Jubilee Celebrations of the College, marking the beginning of a new era in the development of the College. Today is a great day, the one we've been planning and waiting for. This day will be marked as an ostentatious day in the history of Kalindi College. The celebration of Golden Jubilee of any institution is a great event for that institution. I am indeed delighted to be in your midst today - on this joyous occasion of the Golden Jubilee Annual Day celebrations of our College. As I reminisce over the fifty glorious years of Kalindi College's existence and growth, my heart fills with love, admiration and pride for the fertile soil which the College provides to its students, who enter its portals for graduation, to leave as responsible human beings. I consider it my privilege to welcome all of you to today's occasion that marks the 50 glorious years of Kalindi College. Today, as I stand before this august gathering, the significance of this momentous occasion makes me realize, that, though each one of us is a part of history in the making, the present owes much to the past. It is in this context, that I express my gratitude and indebtedness to the entire founder Principals, members of the faculty staff, non-teaching staff, students and parents whose contribution towards the establishment of this College cannot be forgotten.

I feel so proud to be a part of this premier College, having completed 50 golden years. Kalindi College started with just 599 undergraduate students in 1967, 50 years ago has grown to 7671 undergraduate Regular, Non-Collegiate and SOL students and 50 postgraduate students in this academic Golden Jubilee year. The College has also gradually increased number of courses in various disciplines at graduate level. The alumni of this College have occupied and are occupying various significant crown positions in India and abroad. Intelligence and contributions of our students are very significant in making a big impact on the success of our nation. I must compliment the College for effectively utilizing its resources to develop a viable infrastructure and human resources base. Contribution of everyone is appreciable. Our spiritual wisdom, civilization, teaching and non-teaching staff and students have been our strength. In the present day contexts it is not enough for teachers to merely give information and knowledge to students. This is, of course, indispensable and necessary. But more than information and knowledge, human beings need wisdom and character. In the imparting of values, teachers play a major central role. Hence, our emphasis is not only on expansion of and providing access to the educational system of all those who seek to study but more importantly also on improving the knowledge base and quality of our teachers. I am proud to share that our faculty is the finest in the University. There should be a good combination of faculty and students. We aim in providing world class research based education to our students in an effective manner, encouraging them through innovative programmes continually.

I am sure that our College will continue to be on top of ranking charts in the years to come and will continue to excel in academics, sports and extracurricular activities and will bring out highly talented graduates who will transform India to a competitive country among the comity of Nations. My dear students everything is in your hands. You must make yourself ready to do an outstanding and exceptional work, which will find a place for you in the history of the world. You know that history is not written for cowards and for those who think small. If you think big, if you have a vision, if you help others, if you do a great task or invention, or a great project, you will find a page written for yourself in the history of the world. We should not have a slender mindset for limited achievements. We must break the bounds and set up a mind to achieve, a mind to be revolutionary, a mind that does not accept the evils of today, a mind to reform the society and a mind to live with uprightness. The responsibility of using our cultural heritage and value system with outstanding skills is with the youth of today, to establish a modern India, which is prosperous and highly secure. As youth of today, you, the young minds are responsible to build the global leadership for India. I wish you all the best for your future endeavors.

It is always a pleasure to share our joys, our achievements, our successes and our thoughts. I like to share with the gathering that when I took charge of Kalindi College in April 2009, I found the infrastructure and other amenities of the institution to be in a deplorable state. Students and staff were lacking even the basic facilities. There was a great need for the College to grow and change, in terms of infrastructure, academics and cultural environment. I determined to take cudgels on behalf of Kalindi College to make substantial progress in these directions and determined to take regenerative steps in the best interests of the institution and its students. Along with a team of committed and diligent staff members we embarked of a voyage of rectification and regeneration and today I can confidently assert that the outcome is evident to all of us. Research Committee Convener: Dr. Punita Verma

Co-convener: Dr. Nivedita Giri

The Research Committee in the year 2016-2017 strived to move forward with its vision mainly by inspiring and motivating both faculty and students to do research. The research committee makes efforts to inspire and motivate the faculty to apply for external funding for their research projects such as to UGC, DST, CSIR, IGCAR etc. Few faculty members applied for external funding. Internal workshops/discussion meetings were held with each department to spread awareness amongst faculty members.

Research & Innovation

International Project

April 2015: Dr. Sangita Dhal is working as a Research Coordinator on the theme of Centrally Sponsored Scheme/ICDS for the international project of Leverhulme International Research Network on “Continuity and Change in Indian Federalism” in collaboration with Universities of Edinburgh, Nottingham and Bristol.

In this project an attempt is made to examine the inter-governmental relations and engagement of local agencies with regard to the centrally sponsored welfare schemes relating to Integrated Child Development Scheme [ICDS]. ICDS is a flagship social welfare programme launched by India and is one of the oldest nutrition programmes in the world that aims. at providing food, pre-school education and primary healthcare to children less than 6 years of age and their mothers. These services are provided from ‘Anganwadi’ Centers (Child Care Centers) established mainly in rural and urban areas and staffed with frontline workers. Based on an empirical study, the present research attempts to evaluate the impact of the ICDS Programme as a Centrally Sponsored Scheme [CSS] in Odisha, a developing province of India. The state through the implementation of ICDS and thousands of Anganwadi Center networks seeks to fulfill its social and constitutional responsibility by adopting a proactive approach towards the poor and underprivileged children and people of the region.

Inter University Accelerator Centre (IUAC)- an autonomous centre of UGC

Project Code: UFR 58324

Project Title: Molecular orbital approach to the inference of x-ray measurements at small inter atomic distances.

Principal Investigator: Dr. Punita Verma

Total Budget: Rs. Six Lakhs Forty three thousand only (Rs. 6,43,000/-) Status: Ongoing

An experiment was conducted at the General Purpose Scattering Chamber (GPSC) beamline of Inter-University Accelerator Centre (IUAC), New Delhi in February, 2017 to study the interactions of high energy Ag particles with Ag and Bi targets of various thicknesses from their x-ray signatures. In the experiment, 2 x-ray detectors were used, Low Energy Germanium Detectors with both Vertical and Horizontal Cryostat. The detectors were calibrated for energy and efficiency measurements and tested successfully using x-ray radioactive sources  $^{241}\text{Am}$ ,  $^{55}\text{Fe}$  and  $^{57}\text{Co}$ . In the experiment, Au and Bi targets of different thicknesses were bombarded with Ag beam of energies 200MeV and 150 MeV. The corresponding x-ray spectra were recorded using FREEDOM software. The particles emitted were detected by Surface Barrier Detectors (SBD) positioned at  $36^\circ$  and  $42^\circ$  from the beam axis and a Multi Wire Proportional Counter (MWPC). The MWPC was tested beforehand using a 5.5 MeV alpha source inside the evacuated chamber. The data recorded is being analyzed using ORIGIN and MAGIC PLOT softwares.

2. Projects: 03

Principal Investigators: Dr. Pushpa Bindal (Physics), Dr. Triranjita Srivastava (Physics)

Funding Agency: National Academy of Sciences (NASI), India (Delhi Chapter)

Total budget: Rs. Twenty Five Thousands only ( Rs. 25,000/-)

Status: Completed

Dr. Pushpa Bindal (Associate Professor of Physics) and Dr. Triranjita Srivastava (Assistant Professor of Physics) Kalindi College, University of Delhi carried out undergraduate student's projects "Experimental investigations on splice losses in Optical fibers", "Modeling of Plasmonic Waveguides", and "Surface Plasmon Resonance based bio-chemical sensor" with 06 students of B.Sc.(H) Physics (Shiwangi, Kanchan, Shatakshi, Vaivaswati, Divita, Shikha) of the college. The projects were fully funded by NASI- Delhi Chapter.

(2.1) "Experimental investigations on splice losses in Optical fibers"

The optical fibers have revolutionized the field of telecommunication and are the backbone of the ultrafast internet world. Such real fibers are deployed under the sea/oceans in kilometers of length, which are formed by the splicing of the optical fibers. The imperfect splicing results into three types of splice losses, termed as; transverse offset, longitudinal offset and angular offset loss, arising due to transverse, longitudinal and angular misalignment at the joint of the optical fibers. In this project, we experimentally studied all these splice losses in the optical fibers.

The results were found to be in good agreement with those predicted in literature.

(2.2) "Modeling of Plasmonic Waveguides"

Since few decades, Plasmonics has become one of the important elements in the photonic industry. The plasmonics based waveguides are based on the propagation of surface Plasmon polaritons, at the metal-dielectric interface. Due to the presence of the metal, the modeling of such waveguides are done by using finite element/finite difference time domain methods etc., which are cumbersome and time consuming. Therefore, various analytical methods, such as effective index method and separation of variables methods are also employed, which are approximate methods. In this project we obtained the propagation characteristics of rectangular core metallic waveguide using effective index method. We further, studied the performance of optimal numerical variational method (Vopt) on the application to such waveguides which is an iterative method working under the condition of separability of modal fields in the x- and y- directions and does not require any functional form for the field and known to yield quite accurate results for obtaining propagation characteristics of channel waveguides. The transcendental equations were solved by modified bisection method in each direction. The results were found to be better than those of effective index method.

(2.3) "Surface Plasmon Resonance based bio-chemical sensor"

The tremendous growth of nanotechnology industry has come up with the uprising of the field of plasmonics, which offers several applications, such as subwavelength microscopy, imaging, optical signal processing and biochemical sensing applications. The high sensitivity and reliability of such sensors are achieved by the phenomenon of surface plasmon resonance (SPR). In this project work we designed a SPR based sensor based on prism/metal/graphene/analyte which could offer high sensitivity to biochemical samples.

Packaged food although a boon for the overworked urban population has many unknown ingredients which have far reaching impacts the consumers may not be even aware of. Although the focus is on maintaining the levels of toxic chemicals to the permissible levels many unknown toxic chemicals still go undetected. These may creep in from handling as well as packaging material. These impact health especially of infants and children as well as the elderly. These chemicals interfere with normal body functions impairing health and lead to diseases as suggested by several reviews. In the project packaged food will be analysed from different sources and different classes and study their distribution. The main objectives were: (i) Collecting samples of packaged food upto 50 samples including imported food material such as milk and milk powder, cheese, juices, chocolates, ready to eat food items, instant foods, probiotics; (ii) Analysis for microbial presence and high levels of harmful chemicals such as preservatives, formaldehyde, bisphenol, triclosan and others; (iii) Data analysis based on different locations. A survey was conducted on above 900 respondents which gave indication of consumption patterns.

- Microbial contamination was observed in the different samples.
- It was observed that certain samples were still in circulation after expiry dates.
- Sodium benzoate and saccharin was found in juice & milk samples

Project Title: “Microbial Fuel Cell: An Efficient Benign Set Up For Electrochemical Cell For removing of Impurities from Laboratory Generated Waste Water”

Principal Investigators: Dr. Tarkeshwar, Department of Zoology, Kalindi College, Dr. Amit Kumar, Department of Chemistry, Kalindi College

Students Investigators: Priya Nagapal, Poorna Khanna, Aksha Dhawan, Deepika, Sangeeta, Rashi Adhikari, Himanshi, Charu Gupta, Anushka Gupta, Tripti Sharma.

Amount Funded: Rs 5,10,000/-

Status: Completed

Microbial Fuel Cell (MFC) is a bio-electrochemical system that converts biodegradable organic matter into electric energy using viable electrochemically active (electrogenic) microorganisms and is at nascent stage of being explored. This Bio-electrochemical system converts organic matter to protons and recoverable electrons within an anode compartment. Electrons flow through an external circuit to cathode and conduct reduction reactions. Whereas, protons travels to the cathode through glass and indulge in metabolic reactions. The dissolved oxygen in the cathode chamber enables reactions of electrons and protons, thereby producing electricity through a wire completing the system circuit.

In the current project, laboratory generated and industrial wastewater was taken, from various colleges and other site within Delhi region, as feed. Soil samples were collected from various laboratory drainage and other important sites for bacterial screening and establishment of their population. Initial work has been started with E. coli to generate electricity using graphite electrodes in a dual (glass) chambered fuel cell and a size of 30 electrodes standardized for further assessments. Out of various carbon sources, glucose could show the maximal growth of bacterial populations when different carbon sources were evaluated with basal minimal salt. It was observed that all the bacterial cultures had potential to produce electricity except for sample from MN and DR College which could produce least electricity. However, when MFCs with different cultures were evaluated for longer duration, there was a decline in current production with the duration. This shows that it may require some constant supply of nutrient or addition of fresh bacterial colony.

Moreover, further investigation needed to answer the question and also isolation and screen of individual bacterial population for electricity production and effective use of MFCs is required.

The study was based on first hand survey of Old Age Homes (OAH) in Delhi. For the purpose, the students were divided into five teams of two students each and the city was divided in five zones. Each team of students visited OAH in their respective areas, collecting information and tabulating data.

The objective of our study was to understand the growing need of old age homes, the social and economic factors behind the rise of old age homes, to look at the gender, socio-economic composition of old age homes, to study the health, emotional and psychological problems faced by the old persons residing in the old age homes, to assess their attitude, their general feelings, their social relationships and their personal likings. We also examine the costs and facilities provided by the old age homes in Delhi, both public and private. The methodology constitutes a primary survey of old age homes in Delhi, administering separate questionnaires to residents and management of the old age homes and analyzing the data using statistical tools and methods. We find that there is a wide disparity in the kinds of old age homes operating in Delhi. Through our research, we suggest specific solutions to the problems faced by the old age home residents. A major objective of the project is to sensitize the youth by sharing findings of the study. Following activities were undertaken during the course of study:

- Paper prepared by the Team was accepted by the “International Conference on Stress Management 2016”.
- A PowerPoint Presentation was made in the Indian Institute of Technology, Delhi
- A Sensitization Workshop entitled “Caring for Elderly’ was conducted in association with the NSS Unit of the College.

We are of the opinion that old age is not a problem; it is a phase that all individuals will grow through. We only need to work as a chain helping and facilitating each other. Innovation Project KC 303 proposes to initiate this ‘Grey Chain Campaign’.

Depletion of non-renewable resource has shifted the interest of people towards utilization of renewable resources for generation of power. Undoubtedly wind energy is one of the cleanest renewable energy sources for production of power. We came up with the idea of installing small wind turbines in underground metro tunnels. We started with the survey of survey of metro platforms and tracks which gave us some ideas of positions for the installation of turbines. A three bladed HAWT (Horizontal Axis Wind Turbine) with blade length of 30 cm was installed at one of the sites given by DMRC. Unfortunately, the location was not appropriate and hence no output was obtained. A 5 bladed HAWT having a lighter rotor and cut in speed of 3 m/s was then tested and preliminary observations showed that the turbine moved at a higher speed when kept at a height of 5 feet from the ground. Theoretical calculations with the wind velocity observed at few metro stations it was estimated that 0.15kWh (approximate workings of 10 hours a day) of energy can be harnessed with a single 5 bladed HAWT at a wind velocity of ~6m/s. A detailed survey on wind profile of metro stations was then conducted at different metro stations and from the survey we found that wind velocity at Saket metro station reached as high as 11m/s. Moreover, it could be learnt from the simulations that the maximum power of 149 W can be generated from a 5-bladed turbine with Tip Speed Ratio of 5, having blade efficiency of 0.5 and Blade length equal to 0.3 m at a wind velocity of 12 m/s. When we compared different values then keeping every other parameter same, the power generated was 114 W for wind velocity 11 m/s. However, a decrease in the blade radius to 0.2 m, led to lower values of power generated (66.2 W) even if we increase the wind velocity to 12 m/s. This shows that blade radius should be of the order of 0.3 m. Hence, to overcome these problems a turbine suitable for metro stations has to be specifically designed. A system having numbers of small turbines (10 proposed) with multiple blades (3 or 5) in series connected by an axle inside the tunnel is proposed in this condition.

By setting up the conservatory and designing a natural habitat in the urban setup we attempt to conserve the threatened species. Presence of diverse butterfly composition acts as indicator of healthy environmental condition and thereby assists in biological research and biodiversity conservation. Anthropogenic habitat destruction due to extensive urbanization- much of the butterflies are fast disappearing. During the process of making the conservatory, we have encountered around 12-13 species, interestingly which were not visible in the area earlier (e.g. three species of swallow tails, cabbage white butterfly, chocolate pansy, common leopard, plain cupids, plain tiger, common lime, striped tiger and common blue fritillary). Besides butterflies, honey bees, dragon flies, ladybug, squirrels and many bird species are also visiting the conservatory making the conservatory rich in bio-diversity. Setting-up a model butterfly conservatory in urban vicinity especially in a pocket of Delhi with extreme concretized surroundings is an effort to conserve a key interaction (plant-insect interaction) which is at decline in anthropic induced habitats. Educational institutions hold a vital responsibility in maintaining the green pockets for such interactions. Through the innovation project the PI attempts to develop a green patch which is having all the components necessary for butterfly life cycle. It's note worthy to add that the visitors took keen interest in gathering information regarding the setting up of the conservatory and developing the same. Such inquisitiveness may hold potential to sensitize individuals for setting up of the conservatory in their colleges. University of Delhi has a vast spatial extent through its colleges in Delhi, this feature of the university is an important factor which will help to develop such green pockets spread across a large areas. Replicating the butterfly conservatory in all the associated colleges and/or other educational institutions would be a welcome approach. Small initiatives/activities like this will assist us to meet the global challenges of biodiversity conservation.

- The innovation project KC-305 was selected for display at Delhi University Convocation ceremony and bagged the certificate of “Most Significant Societal Impact” award held on 19th November, 2017.

Project Title: “The concept of fuzzy sets.” (Ongoing Project)

Principal Investigator: Ms. Sunita Sharma

Student Investigators: B.Sc. (H) Mathematics, III Semester – Ayushi Pandey (12011), Anshul Jain (12009), Kirti Sharma (12005)

The on-going research project focuses on the concept of fuzzy sets and explores a practical way to model vague data by using fuzzy numbers and fuzzy intervals. To start with, multi-objective linear-programming problems have been considered in which it is assumed that the decision maker has fuzzy goals for each of the objective functions. Further, it is aimed to investigate into portfolio selection problems using Markowitz Model.

Project Title: “Applications of Ring Theory.” (Ongoing Project)

Principal Investigator: Dr. Abhishek Kumar Singh

Student Investigators: B.Sc.(H) Mathematics, VI Semester- Anuja (12018), Diksha Sharma (12001), Neelima (12032)

In this research project an attempt has been made to study some recent problems of Ring theory with their applications in the Mathematical and Physical Sciences. Our project is going to complete and research work by students have influenced different branches of Mathematics and their works show how this theory offers a suitable field for intellectual adventure.

Project Title: “MATHEMATICAL MODELING AND TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM” (Ongoing Project)

Principal Investigator: Dr. Prempal Singh

Student Investigators: Ms. Bhawana Singh B.Sc. (H) Mathematics III Year, Ms. Shruti Singh B.Sc. (H) Mathematics III Year.

The transportation problem is concerned with finding the minimum cost of transporting a single commodity from a given number of sources to a given number of destinations. These types of problems can be solved by general network methods of Mathematical modeling. The data of the Mathematical model include:

- The level of supply at each source and the amount of demand at each destination. The unit transportation cost of the commodity from each source to each destination.
- Since there is only one commodity, a destination can receive its demand from more than one source.

The objective is to determine how much should be shipped from each source to each destination so as to minimize the total transportation cost.

Department of Physics (Ongoing Project)

Project Title: Study of variation of Thermo-emf using different thermocouples under various modified parameters and its subsequent generation for thermoelectric applications

Principal Investigators: Dr. Rachana Kumar & Dr. Seema Gupta

Student Investigators: 3 students from B.Sc. (H) Physics III Year: Aparna, Swati and Tanvi, and 3 students from B.Sc.(H) Physics II Year: Anshul, Komal Tyagi and Kajal.

The variation of thermo-emf with temperature has been recorded for Copper Constantan and Iron Constantan thermocouples under normal conditions and modified condition i.e. application of electric field. Thermo-emf shows an enhancement effect under application of electric field. The study can have potential applications of using thermo-emf as an alternative source of energy which is pollution free, easy to generate and cost effective. The results obtained so far have been presented as a Poster in National Seminar on “A Paradigm Shift towards Empowerment of Women” held on 3-4 February, 2017 at Kalindi College. The poster was awarded the Best Poster Presentation (in sharing) in the subtheme: “Alternative sources of energy”.

Department of Political Science (Ongoing Project)

Project Title: “Civil Society for Development: A Case Study of Women in Delhi.”

Principal Investigator: Dr. Nivedita Giri

Student Investigators: IInd Year Political Science (Hons) – Shruti Das, Sansriti Kashyap, Garima Gupta, and Harshika Sondhi.

Civil society in India plays a vital role in advancing strategic objectives to promote gender equality, and women’s rights and empowerment. Today, India is recognized as the most stable democracy and progressive. For this the credit can be given to civil society activism as the civil society in India has played a significant role in gender mainstreaming and holistic development of women. The study makes an attempt to understand the civil society and its relation to women’s development. The study objectives are: To understand the journey of civil society for the development of women in India; Increasing the sphere of civil society activism and setting an example for others; To find out the civil society engagement in women’s over all development and catering their needs in Delhi; and The challenges civil society faces in Delhi in relation to its actions for the development of women. The Project team has done the preliminary study, collection of data from secondary resources; identified and contacted few Civil Society organisations; and completed the survey with different women groups and NGOs. The study will be completed by coming July.

Department of Geography (Ongoing Project)

Project Title: “A Geographical Study of Tribes in Sarai Rohilla Region.”

Principal Investigator: Dr. Surya Tewari, Assistant Professor

Student Investigators: BA (Prog) Geography First Year Students – Deepika, Rinki, Deepa, Jyoti and Komal

Tribes are one of the disadvantageous groups in the country, if not in urban than definitely in the rural areas. This disadvantageous position has a bearing on their levels of poverty in rural areas (Borooah 2005; Parker and Kozel 2007; Gang, Sen and Yun 2008). As the chances of employment are many in urban areas they may be able to escape the clutches of poverty in urban. Moreover, as the transport is a crucial mode to migrate from one area to another and with respect to study from low economic rural region to high economic urban region, the present study would deal with the analysis of socio economic condition of the Tribes in the surroundings of Sarai Rohilla Region encompassing Sarai Rohilla Railway Station. This is important from the fact that settling near the transport mode enables not just informal works of many types but it also make it easy to undertake journey to one’s native location. The study would be based on the hypothesis that the Tribes who have migrated to Sarai Rohilla have managed to be above the official as well as perceptual levels of poverty. Their condition is expected to be better off from their erstwhile rural location. The study would be based on primary data collected through questionnaire survey and Participatory Learning and Action

Technique. The secondary database would also be employed to gauge their condition and would try to meet its objectives within six months spanning from April to September 2017.

GENDER CHAMPION    Nodal Officer: Dr. Anjoo B. Sharma

The Principal, Kalindi College, appointed a teaching faculty member as Nodal Officer for Gender Champion on the 9th of November 2016. Thereafter, the Principal constituted a committee on 16th of November 2017, with the Nodal Officer as the convenor, with a view to identify Gender Champions. The members of this committee were drawn from the Women's Development Centre and Internal Complaints Committee, to determine the future course of action and work in close cooperation with the Nodal Officer. A meeting of the committee was called on 2nd and 4th January 2017. The same was chaired by the Nodal Officer. The members approved the qualifications for selection of the Gender Champions as per the guidelines issued by the Ministry of HRD, Government of India and the Nodal Officer released the notice calling for applications from students on 04/01/2017. The notice was put up on the college website and the mandatory period was afforded to the students to apply for the posts of Gender Champions. In fact, the date was further extended to ensure compliance and give an opportunity to the last girl.

As the students had many queries regarding the role of Gender Champions, the Nodal Officer planned to expose students to a World Congress titled "Last Girl First" attended by 31 countries on gender issues. Invitations were secured for almost 30 students for the World Congress against Sexual Exploitation of Women and Girls organized by international agency CAP and AA Worldwide, being held at the Indian International Centre, New Delhi. Students, including applicants for Gender Champions, and designated faculty members attended the world event on 29-31 January 2017, where survivors of sexual exploitation from across the globe came and addressed the audience. Gender Champions were selected in total compliance with the circular from the Government of India. The names of the Gender Champions are:

1	Ms. Prachi Aryal	1 st Year B.A (Hons) Journalism
2	Ms. Vibha Singh	1 st Year B.A (Hons) Journalism
3	Ms. Abhilasha Sharma	1 st Year B.A.(Hons) Political Science

To give exposure to a larger number of students (who could not be accommodated at the India International Centre) and to sensitize them on gender issues, survivors from among the speakers at the World Congress "Last Girl First" were invited to college. One among them, who had yet not returned home after the World Congress, had the students awestruck with her honesty and courage to narrate her ordeal of exploitation and determination to fight back. On 30th March 2017, Gender Champions along with students from college are scheduled to go to attend a National Conference on "Gandhian Satyagraha and Women's movements" as a part of their ongoing and continuous training.

Nobody knows how and why women got to receive secondary position in the society. Indian women are inheritors of a very intricate pattern of social models and cultural ideals. The apparent indicators of women's low status like sati, female infanticide, child marriage and enforced widowhood formed essential items in the agenda of attack of almost all the major reformers of the ninetieth century India. The problem of women received the attention of social reformers. In the modern times, some individuals, organized associations and journals significantly played remarkable role in bestirring the Indian society to focus its attention on this problem and make efforts in the direction of the general emancipation of Indian women. ### Pravah College Magazine: Golden Jubilee Edition

Convenor: Ms. Monica Zutshi, Co-convenor: Ms. Rekha Meena

Editorial Board: English Section: Ms. Monica Zutshi (In charge), Ms. Sneha Sawai, Ms. Tanya Singh; Hindi Section: Ms. Rekha Meena (In charge), Ms. Ritu, Dr. Brahmanand; Sanskrit Section: Dr. Deshraj (In charge), Mr. Vishwajit; Dr. Kalpana Kumari (Botany), Dr. Sanavar Soham (Botany) and Dr. Arunjit (Zoology)

Pravah is the trilingual student magazine published by the college and released on Annual Day. Published in English, Hindi and Sanskrit, it provides students a platform to express themselves and showcases their preoccupations, thoughts and feelings, both through writing and their art work. Furthermore, the magazine also gives space to the photographs of the events and activities that the college organises throughout the year.

For the Golden Jubilee edition this year, we have included two major achievements of the college. First and foremost, the fact that for 50 years now, Kalindi College has attempted to mould young girls into good citizens, aware individuals and confident women, eager to take on the challenges of life. In order to showcase this long, fruitful journey, the Pravah magazine committee decided to focus not only on this year, but also the continuum of educational and social contribution that the college has made through its staff and its students for this entire duration of half a century. Hence we have incorporated the memories of both retired teachers as well as its alumnae in order to highlight their role in the building of this institution. Students currently on the rolls have also presented the Golden Moments that they have enjoyed in college, and the crucial role that education has to play in shaping the future at both the individual as well as collective levels.

Secondly, the college has worked together as a team to secure Grade 'A' in the first cycle of NAAC accreditation. Each member of the college, be it student, non-teaching staff, or faculty has worked relentlessly, contributing her best to the effort. This endeavor of over three years has also found the place of pride in our magazine this year.

We are grateful to our Principal, Dr. Anula Maurya for her support and encouragement. We thank Dr. Ruchi Tyagi for her prompt and helpful inputs for both the write up and photographs of the NAAC work and the peer team visit. We are grateful to Dr. Saroj Dutta for sharing her large treasure of old photographs with us. We are deeply appreciative of all retired teachers for their valuable inputs, and our alumnae for contributing once again to this edition of the student magazine. We also thank Mr. Ezra John for his assistance in the selection of photographs for inclusion in the magazine and Ms. Nivedita Giri, in charge of the Journalism Department for the photographs of the various committees. We are also deeply appreciative of the hard work put in by the entire team of student editors: Shweta Kalra, Samriddhi Raj and Sakshi Sharma (English Section), Pallavi, Reena and Aparna (Hindi Section) and Sapna, Deepika and Mekal (Sanskrit Section).
