

Ritva is a non-profit organization started 2 years back by the students of Kirori Mal College, University of Delhi. The motive of the organization is to reach out women of rural and backward places who cannot afford menstruation products and provide them those. The organization also educates young girls and boys on the topic of menstruation. The members are kind, helpful and very enthusiastic about the work they are doing. Ritva has now been initiated in several other colleges like Hindu College, Bhim Rao Ambedkar College, Miranda House etc. Due to the fact that Ritva has a great kind motive for the betterment of the society, Kalindi College students also decided to start a Kalindi Chapter this year.

And under this chapter, on 19th October , 2022 (Wednesday), members of the Ritva Organization, Kalindi college, organized an open donation camp. The timings to donate the items was from 8am to 3pm. It was titled 'GIVE-A-LITTLE' by the students . The camp was organized with the motto- let's extend our hands and donate to the ones in need.

The camp was organized to help the poor women and girls who cannot afford hygiene products . The camp took place outside the gate of Kalindi College. The President of the Ritva-K, Ms. Harshita Rai had invited the students to donate sanitary products and clothes for the women in need. The students as well as the professors of the college participated very enthusiastically in the program. Apart from students, many common people also participated in this. The members collected clothes, sanitary napkins, medicines etc. The products collected from this camp were donated to an NGO . The NGO ensured Ritva-K that they'll make sure to deliver the collected items to the needy. After the completion of the donation, Ms. Harshita thanked and appreciated everyone present at the camp. The participants were very proud to be able to work for people in need.
